HOW DOES A GLASS BREAK SENSOR WORK?

Glass break sensors are a key component of a home security system as they sound an audible alarm and send a signal to our monitoring center anytime a window is broken in your home, which could be a sign of an intruder.

But how do they work? Glass break sensors listen for and detect a certain decibel range of noise that occurs when glass is broken. When your system is armed and this happens, our monitoring center is notified immediately and will contact you and the proper authorities right away.

It's easy to protect your home when you choose a state-of-the-art security system linked to fast-response alarm monitoring from WH Security. Call us at 763.477.3664 to add glass break sensors to your custom system today.
